

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A operation apparatus which enables instantly grasping an information concerning a function of the device and setting the function easily is disclosed. The operation apparatus which is used with a device for image-taking; comprises a display member which displays an information concerning a function of the device and a first operation switch for setting the function according to the information displayed on the display member.